Six-Braid Challa for Shabbat

It is a non-binding custom to braid challa as a reminder of the 12 showbreads (lechem ha'panim) in the Temple that were changed each Shabbat. Proper practice is to braid each challa from six pieces of dough, as there were two columns of six loaves each.

NOTE Since these showbreads were not changed on Rosh Hashana and Jewish festivals, we may use round challot for those holidays (unless they fall on Shabbat or the holiday is Passover!).

NOTE Sectional challa should be made from six pieces but counted as one loaf: you may not separate the rolls of a "pull-apart" challa and count them as multiple loaves.

© Copyright 2024 Richard B. Aiken | www.practicalhalacha.com